

INTRODUCING

Bouncy the People Trainer

Some people train dogs. I'm a dog who trains people. Who better to teach self-efficacy about learning to students who've had a tough time, than a disabled canine, who's had an even more difficult life? Bouncy was born poor, sent to an abusive foster home, then back to the shelter before being adopted into a family with a real service dog where he learned to sit still, pay attention and read people - that's right - read them like a book. Now he can train your students too.

An app to develop self-efficacy about learning and behavior

From the makers of multi-award winning, NREPP listed, Ripple Effects for Kids and Teens, comes Bouncy the People Trainer's You Can Learn app for pre- K to 1st graders. In less than 5 seconds, a four year old can choose from 1600 lifelike avatars then see themselves star in an animated adventure. Character driven, evidence-based, Bouncy represents the applied synthesis of research in SEL, developmental brain studies, instructional methodology, game design, story telling and cultural competence – all to improve both behavioral and academic outcomes.

Learner directed and it's fun.

Call now for introductory pricing 888-259-6618

The Sure-ometer

A self report tool for early learners

The Sure-ometer is a simple, visually engaging tool to measure how confident young children are about their capacity to learn along three different dimensions directly linked to school performance: reading, getting along with others, and controlling personal behavior.

The Sureometer, available FREE through the app store, is a thermometer-like device through which young learners mark their own perception of self-confidence. It is one of the only such tools developed directly for use by young children, rather than by parents or teachers. The purpose of this tool is to measure growth over time. Access to a back end database with group level students' scores is available for a premium.

Born for Greatness

The Dalai Lama has two legs. Bouncy has three.
The Dalai Lama is bald. Bouncy has a lot of fur.
They both misbehaved and had to learn to sit still.

And they were both born for greatness.

So is every child.

Meet the endearing three-legged teacher who can inspire your child to become a great leader and greatly of service to others.

This inspiring book makes it clear to any reader that he or she has the capacity for greatness via hard work, belief in the possibility of being great and having a People Trainer who has walked the talk – even on three legs.

Maurice Elias Rutgers Center for Applied Psychology. Author of "Emotionally Intelligent Parenting," and "Talking Treasure: Stories to Help Build Emotional Intelligence and Resilience in Young Children"

